

How Much Does It Cost?

There is no fee to apply to check if you are entitled to accreditation. If your qualification(s) are accepted for accreditation, you will be notified in writing. For CII subjects you will have to pay a fee for each individual credit awarded except in respect of other CII qualifications held. The fee for Advanced Diploma credits is STG£3 per individual credit for members of The Insurance Institute of Ireland and members of the Chartered Insurance Institute. The accreditation fee for Irish CIP & JFSD modules is €75 per module for members. This fee is payable on award of accreditation. Please note that exemptions will only be added to a student record when payment has been received. Any offer of exemptions can change or be withdrawn without notice if payment is not received.

Existing Accreditations

Various bodies have already successfully had some of their relevant qualification(s) accredited. To view a complete listing, please visit our website - www.insurance-institute.ie.

For example, UL, UCD, DIT: These colleges have established Insurance Studies within their courses and as a result attain significant credits towards the Advanced Diploma in Insurance (ACII®).

NOTE : You will not be awarded an exemption if :

- your application is not accompanied by the relevant documentation.
- the III module's syllabus has not been substantially covered by your qualification. 'Substantially covered' is defined as 80% syllabus coverage / course content overlap.
- if your qualification has been assessed using a technique and at a standard not comparable with those applied to the III module. This means a 70% match in methods of assessment.
- you have already sat and passed the module.
- you have already completed the III / CII version of the subject from which an exemption is being sought e.g. you have already taken the CII's 820 Claims subject and are seeking an exemption from the III's 821 Claims subject
- the qualification which forms the basis of your exemption application is over 10 years old.
- it would result in the III qualification having been awarded by exemption alone.

A letter of confirmation of entitlement to exemptions is not confirmation that exemptions have been added to your record. Your exemptions will only be added to your record when any fees due are paid.
